A New Diving Adventure Starts In Bahrain

The first phase of the world's largest underwater theme park has been launched by Bahrain Tourism and Exhibitions Authority (BTEA).

The Minister of Industry, Commerce and Tourism and chairman of BTEA board, Zayed bin Rashid Al Zayani, noted that the project will reinforce Bahrain's reputation as a leading regional tourist destination. The unique dive site, which covers an area of 100,000 square meters, will have a 70-meter long decommissioned Boeing 747 as its centerpiece, the largest ever to be submerged, he added. Residents and tourists will be able to book trips through licensed diving centers by August, he said, noting that there will be no fees imposed by the Ministry or the BTEA. Supreme Council for Environment Chief Executive Dr Mohamed Mubarak bin Daina said that the ground-breaking project is unique in its compliance to strict environmental standards. Preparing the aircraft for submersion included removing wires, hydraulic, aerial and fuel systems, adhesive, plastic, rubber, chemical materials, and all possibly-toxic substances to preserve the marine environment. The site will provide an exceptional dive experience as it will include several structures in addition to the aircraft, such as a replica of a traditional Bahraini pearl merchant's house, artificial coral reefs and other sculptures fabricated from eco-friendly material, all submerged to provide a safe haven for coral reef growth and a habitat for marine life.
