1. The Bahrain Pearling Trail

The Bahrain Pearling Trail (also called the Bahrain Pearling Pathway) is a serial cultural heritage site inscribed on the UNESCO World Heritage List on June 30, 2012. It consists of three oyster beds in the northern waters of Bahrain, a segment of the coast and the seafront Bu Mahir fortress in the southern tip of Muharraq Island, and 17 buildings in historical section of Muharraq connected by a 3.5 km visitor pathway.

The site is Bahrain's second World Heritage Site after the Bahrain Fort. Though the site was inscribed under the label: "Pearling, testimony of an island economy" by the Bahrain Ministry of Culture, the international media has consistently referred to it as the "Bahrain pearling trail".

Bahrain and Israel seal deal to open embassies and set up online visa systems

● Weekly flights between the two countries soon

Reuters | Jerusalem

Bahrain and Israel said yesterday they would open embassies, establish online visa systems and launch weekly flights between the two countries soon, in a broadened cooperation promoted by Washington as an economic boon.

On the first official visit by Bahraini officials to Israel, Bahrain Foreign Minister Dr Abdullatif Al Zayani said a Sep. 15 deal normalising relations spelled "a warm peace that will deliver clear benefits to our peoples".

Al Zayani's trip coincided with a visit to Israel by US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, who hailed the regional rapprochement brokered by the Trump administration. He was welcomed by Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in the meeting.

Al Zayani announced that, as of Dec. 1, Bahrainis and Israelis will be able to apply online for entry visas. He also submitted a request to open a Bahraini embassy in Israel and said an Israeli embassy had been approved.

Israeli Foreign Minister Gabi Askenazi, who is due to visit Manama next month, said he hoped opening ceremonies for the embassies would be held by the end of 2020.

Al Zayani expects 14 such flights weekly starting next year, as well as flights to the smaller Israeli destinations of Haifa and Eilat.
