The National Medical Taskforce
adopts a COVID-19 Alert Level Traffic Light System based on positivity rates that will help regulate sectors

According to the assessment of the average percentage of cases to numbers of tests over the last 14 days, it was decided, starting from Friday, 2 July 2021, to adopt the yellow level alert within the COVID-19 Alert Level Traffic Light System

COVID-19 Alert Level Traffic Light System:

Consists of 4 levels based on the average percentage of cases to tests, in addition to the level of occupancy in intensive care, as follows:

Levels	Average percentage of existing cases
Green	When the average percentage of active cases for a period of 14 days is less than 2%.
Yellow	When the average percentage of active cases for 7 days is between 2% and less than 5%.
Orange	When the average percentage of active cases for 4 days is between 5% and less than 8%.
Red	When the average percentage of active cases for 3 days is 8% or more.

The medical team noted that some dates may be designated by the National Medical Taskforce at higher alert levels if deemed necessary to the health and safety of all.

Bahrain's Got a New System for Lockdowns

As of July 2, Bahrain will be moving into a Yellow level lockdown. This means that for vaccinated or recovered adults as well as people under the age of 12 (who require a vaccinated or recovered adult to accompany them), entry to malls, salons, amusement parks, dining, sports centres, spas, and conferences is open. Cinemas will operate at 50% capacity, and non-vaccinated individuals will be allowed to attend events of up to 30 people, enter government centres, attend school in person, and enter shops outside of malls. All businesses that remained open during the lockdown so far will continue to operate freely through all levels of the new system.

A New Rail Network Connecting the GCC is Coming Soon

Eithad Rail is currently focused on freight, but that's set to change as it gears up to connect all seven Emirates of the UAE to Saudi Arabia, and eventually Qatar, Kuwait, Bahrain and Oman. The rail network will be the UAE's first national freight and passenger railway, and we're just counting the days until we get to board!

Eithad has also ensured that the horns will be used only in cases of emergency, the tracks don't have joints, and noise pollution as well as carbon emissions are lower than the alternative of 300 trucks delivering goods.

Bahrain's Among the Top 12 Most Generous Countries In The World

Charities Aid Foundation (CAF), based in London, released its annual World Giving Index 2021 – and Bahrain's come out in the 10th position worldwide under the category of donating money! Turns out we have a community that prioritizes welfare, giving back, and community outreach, and we're proud. The index takes into account several factors apart from donating money – namely helping a stranger, and volunteering at charity organizations. Under the category of helping a stranger, Bahrain ranked 29th. When it came to volunteering at charities, we ranked 47th worldwide. Overall, our ranking stands at 12th place, which sounds pretty good to us!
