Bahrain Introduces Golden Residency Visas for Investors and Top Talent

Bahrain introduces 'golden' permanent residency visas to attract talent and investment in the region! Several Gulf states offer more flexible and longer-duration visas for expats and Bahrain is all set to become a part of the trend! The Golden Residency Visa will be renewed without a fixed limit by the Interior Ministry, will include the right to work in Bahrain, unlimited entry and exit and residency for close family members. The new step aims at attracting investors, entrepreneurs, and highly talented individuals who can contribute to Bahrain's ongoing success and we think this is an amazing initiative! To qualify for the visa, a candidate must have resided in Bahrain for at least 5 years and earned an average salary of at least BHD 2000 ($5,306) per month. In addition to this requirement, those who own properties above a certain value, along with retirees and "highly talented" people who meet certain criteria will also qualify.

Sheikh Rashid bin Khalifa Al Khalifa's Art house

Sheikh Rashid himself has been a contemporary artist and painter for quite a while, not to mention a pioneer of the art movement and scene in Bahrain. The heritage house has been converted into a sort of art gallery, where you can walk through and see different pieces by the painter – at the traditional Bahraini home where he, along with other members of the Royal family, was raised in. The house itself stands to serve as a platform to empower artists around the world, which is why the RAK Art Foundation was initially established.
