Model Of Peace And Harmony

Bahrain lives in peace and harmony because of its distinctive coherent social fabric, His Majesty King Hamad said yesterday.

His Majesty offered his best wishes on the new Hijri year and expressed satisfaction with the responsible commemoration of Ashoora.

In a speech delivered to the nation at the end of the commemoration of Ashoora, the King praised the strong resolve and dedicated steadfastness of Team Bahrain in the fight against the coronavirus. He also hailed the role of religious scholars in explaining the significance of protecting people, saving lives and avoiding harm, especially during exceptionally trying times.

Mosques in Bahrain to re-open gradually

YRF | MANAMA

The Ministry of Justice, Islamic Affairs and Endowments announced yesterday to gradually open mosques by allowing the performance of the Fajr (dawn) prayers daily, starting from tomorrow.

Mosques all over Bahrain will be opened for men to perform Fajr prayers only, under the supervision of the relevant endowments directorate, and those that fail to meet organisational and health requirements will be closed.

The Friday prayer will remain suspended, except for the Ahmed Al Fateh Mosque, where it will be performed with the participation of a limited number.

The Justice Ministry outlined the necessary health precautionary measures to be followed for the gradual reopening of mosques and resumption of collective worship, as follows:

- Preventing gatherings and crowding at the gates of mosques during the entry and exit process, while leaving a distance of not less than two metres between each person
- Opening mosques 10 minutes before the prayers, and closing them 10 minutes after their end, and ensuring that the worshippers leave mosques after they finish the prayers in a gradual and orderly manner without any delay or crowding
- Prohibiting worshippers from staying in mosques after prayers and advising them to perform Sunnah at home
- Requesting people to perform prayers in the mosque closest to their homes
- Preventing the sick, women, and under-15 children from entering mosques, while urging the elderly to perform prayers at home
- People whose presence may cause harm to them or to others are strictly forbidden from entering mosques, and deterrent penalties will be inflicted on violators
- People will have to perform ablution (Wudu) before going to the mosque as ablution places, bathroom, toilets, refrigerators and water taps will be closed
- Worshippers shall bring their personal prayer rugs with them, and not leave them at mosques after prayers
- Wearing face mask and sanitisation are mandatory for worshippers
- Measuring the temperature of the worshippers before entering the mosque to make sure that they show no symptoms
- Keeping mosque doors wide open before and after prayer to facilitate entry and exit, so that no one touches them, in addition to making sure that the handles are disinfected after each prayer continuously
- Removing all Holy Quran books, and requesting people to read the Quran from their own Quran books or mobile phones
- Ensuring physical distancing between worshippers from all directions
- Sterilisation of chairs in mosques, and making sure that only the right number is used
- Hand-shaking will be forbidden

Fun Facts That Will Make You Smile

Octopus make their own gardens at the bottom of the sea

You may have already heard of The Beatles' song, but did you know that you can visit a real octopus' garden? The underwater creatures actually gather sponges and grow other marine plants on the seafloors. They even gather together in groups to lay eggs – like an octopus party!

Your Heartbeat Syncs Up With Your Partner's
Research out of UC Davis has shown that when you look into a loved one's eyes—specifically, a romantic partner—your heartbeat and breathing will sync up. It's called interpersonal synchronization, and it also accounts for that whole "We finish each other's..." "...sentences" thing: your brainwaves and thought patterns start to link up, too.
