George Gregan At Bahrain Rugby Football Club

Join in for a memorable evening with international Rugby legend, George Gregan, who has made more appearances for his Australian national team, the Wallabies, than any other player in the sport's history. Gregan is respected throughout the rugby world for his tenacity, tactical skill, leadership ability and sportsmanship. His appearances as Australian captain include a Bledisloe Cup win in 2002 and an extra-time loss to England in the 2003 Rugby World Cup final. As a member of the Wallabies team, Gregan has attained the zenith of the rugby world, winning the Rugby World Cup in 1999.

HM King inaugurates Alba Line 6 milestone

His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al-Khalifa has patronized the inauguration of the Alba Line 6 Expansion Project at the Aluminium Bahrain B.S.C. His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Crown Prince, Deputy Supreme Commander and First Deputy Prime Minister has also attended the inauguration of Alba milestone.

HM The King expressed delight at inaugurating the Alba Line 6 Expansion Project, which will further bolster the standing of the firm to become the largest smelter with a total production capacity exceeding one million metric tons per year. He underlined the importance of the milestone, which will enhance Bahrain's global competitiveness in this important sector, support the national economic development, spur growth and create many rewarding career opportunities for national cadres.

One of the largest brownfield projects in the Region, Alba's Line 6 Expansion Project is a remarkable success in so many ways to include an achieved savings of more than US$370 million in the execution of Reduction Line 6 – corresponding to 16% savings of its allotted budget. Some of these savings were utilised to upgrade Alba Port for importing and handling more raw materials, as well as to finance other projects related to Line 6 Expansion Project.

Reduction Line 6 - one of the longest reduction lines in the world that comprises 424 reduction cells built over an area of 1,400 metres - will add 540,000 metric tonnes per annum to the company's total production capacity bringing it to more than 1.5 million metric tonnes, a remarkable growth from being a 120,000 mtpa aluminium smelter when it was commissioned back in 1971.
