Bahrain has helped contain Covid-19 by using digital health solutions and implementing a “robust medical response”, according to a new report. Global research and consultancy firm Oxford Business Group (OBG), in its latest report yesterday, has praised the various healthcare measures taken by Bahrain to deal with the pandemic, despite having the third-highest rate of population density in the world.

The International Hospital Bahrain (IHB), which stopped operating in June 2018 following years of being at the centre of a massive pay row that started in 2014, is the latest addition to Bahrain's Covid-19 treatment facilities.
